

You *

Richard Veras – Riro Maniscalco

D        A                    Bm
In the bush there's a fire,
G                    A        D
a fire that I call You,
                                 A                    Bm
in the Red Sea there is water, G                    G        A        D
water that I walk through.

D                                    A
Where are you bringing me,
Bm                                    G
where do you lead,
D                                    A                                    Bm                                    G
what is the promise that embraces my need,
D                                    A
how high the mountain,
                                 Bm                                    G
how fearsome the view,
D                                    A                                    Bm                                    G
how can I follow unless I call You.

In the tent there is an ark
an ark that I call You.
My heart has hoped a temple,
but build my son must do.

Where are you bringing me ...

In the manger there's a baby,
a baby that I call You.
God's grace has filled my soul,
and a sword will pierce it through.

Where are you bringing me ...

On the cross there was a man,
a man that I called him,
on the shore he cooked my breakfast
and I call him You again.

Where are you bringing me ...
